

SUPPLIER DIVERSITY

HR Now! offers an innovative program for measuring, monitoring, and enhancing the success of corporate supplier diversity programs.

This program involves research procedures that allow organizations to evaluate their current supplier diversity efforts using an entirely objective, data-based methodology.

...study results provide input for making clear, measurable business decisions for moving an organization's supplier diversity initiatives forward...

- Assists corporations in obtaining feedback from both their employees and suppliers on key aspects of the supplier diversity program.
- Measures a number of additional factors ranging from Internet accessibility to the specifics of procurement systems
- Addresses special needs of participants in corporate protégé/mentor programs
- Develops benchmark data-sets which allow an organization to compare the results of its supplier diversity efforts with the results of supplier diversity programs among similar organizations – locally, statewide, or nationwide

HR Now!'s team of consultants manages the entire process from initial questionnaire design to the presentation of the final results
